

the great pizza debate / our latest obsessions / bubble tea

Now On Tap

IT'S BACK. After a successful introduction last year, Philadelphia Beer Week returns March 6 through 15—this time with even more local taprooms and restaurants pouring specialty craft brews. Regional favorites like Victory and Yards will be on hand for the festivities, as will such notable out-of-towners as Rock Art and Stone. More than 200 events will be held, representing all aspects of beer culture, from tastings to seminars. OUR TIP: Foodies should take advantage of the Brewer's Plate program, which pairs local restaurant cuisine with complementary beers, while hops snobs may be more inclined to hit up the Philly Craft Beer Fest at the Navy Yard on March 7. For more information, visit phillybeerweek.org.—PETER PROKO